SPEEDER IS GIVEN TEN DAYS IN THE STOCKADE.

Mark Chastian, 18, of Lula Ga., Thursday was given the heaviest penalty imposed since the opening of the war on traffic law violators when, in addition to being fined $100 and costs for speeding, he was sentenced to serve ten days in the stockade.

The stockade penalty marks the first of the campaign, and is in line with the relentless program mapped ou: by police in the drive to eliminate traffic violations.

A. W. Callaway, recorder pro tem, explained the heavy punishment by stating that Thursday was the second time Chastian had been found guilty of speeding recently, his first offense also drawing a $100 fine.

While his parents watched him crossing the street, Harry Eugene C. A. Cabe, who live on the Hollywood road, was run down and crushday afternoon at the corner of Simpson and Edwards streets.

CLOSES 1923-24 TERM

Monroe, Ga., May 29 .- (Special.)-The annual commencement exercises of the fifth district A. & M. school came to a close when 55 students from every section of Georgia were warded diplomas Wednesday. The address was delivered by Dr. Lyman B. Veednesday. er, of Cornelia.

Exercises began with a baby show last Saturday afternoon when a large number competed for honors. Satur-day evening the alumni banquet was held.

Sunday morning the commence-ment sermon was delivered by Dr. H. C. Howard, of Emory university. A minstrel was presented Monday eve-

Mr. Dibble obtained an admission of the authorship of twenty-three ex-cerpts from Bishop Brown's book, "Communism and Christianism," but again met a successful objection from Mr. Sharts when he tried to intro-duce the entire book in evidence. He finally obtained a ruling, ad-mitting parts of the book and in addi-tion to the everyty put in evidence.

He finally obtained a ruling, admitting parts of the book and in addition to the excerpts, put in evidence the covers of the book, its preface and frontispiece as showing the intention of publication and a page listing fifteen editions of the work as showing the extent of its circulation.

The front cover carried the inscription "Banish Gods from skies and capitalists from earth." The back cover showed a cartoon depicting the committee of five bishops appointed to investigate heresy charges against Bishop Brown as dogs circling around a porcupine. The preface began:

"Lying supernaturalism is going; robbing capitalism is falling; saving laborism is rising and leveling unionism is coming."

The 23 excerpts from Bishop Brown's book which were admitted as evidence start with the author's declaration that "within the social realm humanity is my new divinity and your divinity my old one) is a symbol of it, or else, as I think, he is at best a fiction and at worst a superstition."

a superstition."

The second compared capital and Christianism as "parasitic systems," the god of the former being yellow gold and of the latter "an unreal imaginary spirit." The next said:

'Orthodox Christians say that Jesus founded their sectarian churches, though each sect insists he had to do with only one church, theirs. I doubt that He lived."

The fourth described the Christ of

The fourth described the Christ of the world as "an unconscious impersonal machine" to which alone "we may hopefully look for taking away the sins of the world."

Knowledge Is World's Savior-God.

Declarations that knowledge is the world's savior-God and there is no other Christian heaven or earth; that when Jesus announced His unity with God He might well have included all mankind and that the "Gods in the skies" were symbols on an equal footing with Uncle Sam and Santa Claus, followed.

"I place the Brother Jesus of Chris-tian religion and the Uncle Sam of American politics on the same foot-American politics on the same footing," said another excerpt.

The triune God of Christianity—
Father, Son and Holy Ghost—was described as a figment of the imagination and again as a superstition.

There followed excerpts in which Bishop Brown announced his god was nature, "matter heing the father force."

Bishop Brown announced his god was nature, "matter being the father, force the son and law the spirit."

He said he had ceased to believe in a conscious personal divinity and had lost faith in the existence of a spiritual world and hope for a future life. He styled himself a professing Christian, but acknowledged himself as not believing that Jesus exists as a God or that we have any authentic knowledge as to what He did or said as a man.

Finally, the excerpts quoted a portion of the book, stating that in the opinion of Bishop Brown neither "Brother Jesus" nor "Uncle Sam" had anything to do with is life, though he loved both "as a child loves Santa Claus at Christmas Asking dismissal of the charge, At Asking dismissal of the charge, Attorney Sharts said the prayer book provides all doctrines of the church must rest upon the Bible. He argued that since the Athenasian creed, contained in the English prayer book, is not in the American, this creed must be considered only a form of worship. From this he progressed to the idea that the Apostle and Nicene Creeds are not doctrinal.

The administration likewise insisted that if such a bill were passed it must carry provision for increases in rates of postage on various classes of mail matter to meet the addition to the payroll of the postal service.

Provides No New Income.

Mr. New wrote the senate committee that the administration would approve an aggregate raise of ap-mittee that the administration would approve an aggregate raise of approximately $43,000,000 a year. Bills originally introduced proposed aggregate increases as high as $125,000,000. However, Mr. New plainly said the administration expected any bill passed to provide its own means for payment. He suggested material increases in parcel post rates and smaller increases on second-class matter, postal money orders and registry fees.

Neither the senate nor the house bill readjusts postage rates. Advocates of the bill say that this matter is now being studied by a joint postal commission which will report in time for action at the next session of congress and will recommend a scientific revision of postage rates. Meanwhile the senate has passed, and the house is to follow suit, a bill which its critics say may involve an additional outlay of as high as $80,000,000, the increases to become effective July 1

Can Override Veto.

Can Override Veto.

Senator Edge told the senate that the salary increase would be offset by the "normal growth of the postal service." The senate committee did not accept the recommendation of the postoffice department, which held that the postal bill must be self-sustaining and not a levy on the treasury. Proponents of the bill assert, however, that it will be possible later to raise postage rates if this becomes necessary.

If the president vetoes the bill its advocates in both houses consider that it will be easy to pass it over the veto. This is indicated by the senate recognition and consideration, Judge

Broyles declared that it was the colonial lawyer, who lighted the torch to patriotism and whose efforts united the people in defense of their liberties when the dark clouds of revolution enveloped the country.

"It was another colonial lawyer who dipped his pen in immortal ink and wrote for all men everywhere their 'Declaration of Indenendence.'" the jurist continued, and it was this same lawyer who first planted in American soil the beneficent seeds of religious tolerance and freedom and who had the honor of laying foundaries.

"Another profound student of constitutional and international law won the glory as father of the federal constitution; another dictated Virginia's bill of rights," he declared.

"Grouped around these brilliant luminaries were many other legal stars of the first magnitude, such as Hamilton, Marshall, Burr, John Quincy Adams, the Randolphs, Luther Martin, Charles Co'esworth Pinckney, William Pinkney, John Rutledge and John Jay, all of whom were members of the legal fraternity at the beginning of the revolution or shortly the reafter," he concluded.

$100,000 Cut Is Made.

Request for a special session of council was voted by the finance committee after it had spent three days in a determined effort to cut city expenses to meet city income, including slashing more than $100,000 out of the January apportionment sheet to meet the April water rate reduction.

Announcement of the banks' refusal of a loan to schools, made in a letter transmitted to Mayor Sims Thursday morning containing the association's resolution, came as a bombshell to the committee.

MILLIONAIRE THORNE IS GRANTED DIVORCE

New York, May 29 .- The appellate division of the supreme court today approved a final decree of divorce granted Joel Wolfe Thorne, millionaire banker, against his wife, Mary Casey Thorne, once voted the most beautiful girl in her class at Barnard college. Thorne retains custody of their nine-year-old son, Joel Wolfe Thorne, Jr. They were married in 1911.

An interlocutory decree was granted after Mrs. Thorne had asked a legal separation, alleging that her husband had wrongfully had her incarcerated in the psychopathic warl of Bellevue hospital. The banker countered with a divorce decree naming a sailor as correspondent.

UNIFORM TRAFFIC LAWS SUGGESTED AS PREVENTATIVE

Standardization of traffic regulaions as a preventative for a large number of automobile accidents is suggested in an article by George M. Gra-ham in a recent issue of "Haul-Age and Timely Topics," published by the Garford Motor Truck company, Inc.,

As traffic laws in some states and cities are not in effect in others, the article points out, many motorists unknowingly violate various rules, and practically the only remedy is stan-ardization.

The need of uniformity requires that The need of uniformity requires that signals be made by drivers themselves and that uniform signs and signals be adopted throughout the country to direct traffic. It is suggested that a simple solution would be to have hand signals by drivers indicate only that they are going to take some action, and not be used to show specifically whether the driver is going to turn or stop. By that system all traffic behind the car in question would be required to stop until the driver's intentions were ascertained, it is stated. Traffic bureaus also are recommended for every city as such organizations place the responsibility of controlling traffic on an iadividual or group who can make studies of the situation and are equipped to enforce regulations and prevent overcrowded streets.

"TIME TO STOP IT."

The Savannah Press, quoting from The Constitution's editorial on the unfairness of the present Pullman surcharge levy upon travelers, heartily indorses the same, under the caption "Time To Stop It." The Press says:

not making money, and were having a hard time to recover from the disruptions and disorganizations produced by war. The people did not seriously object then, as the strained economic conditions were recognized, and the spirit of cooperation predominated to a marked extent.

"Now the railroads are enjoying an even greater prosperity than before the world war, and they demand the surcharge now only because they have it, with its annual increase into the railroads' revenues of something like $37,000,000 a year, and are not dis- in Georgia and in protecting investposed to give up what they have ors from the multitude of wild-cat. without a fight."

Indeed It is "time to stop It!" by the traveling public, has long since passed, and yet the tax remains, and will continue to remainindefinitely in all probability unless the house of representatives follows the example of the senate and, by passing the senate bill, repeals the provision which was enacted in

This it should do, and without delay. The end of the session is tirely agreed that the 7th of June shall be the day of adjournment. It is not probable, should an adjournbefore the national conventions, which is customary, that congress will convene again before the regular short term date in December. The Sixty-eighth congress expires on the 4th of March, and the short term is generally productive of but little legislation, being seriously hampered by post-election influences, and by the holiday periods.

The house should act upon the senate surcharge repeal bill at once between now and its June adfournment.

ORGANIZED RECREATION.

On this page is a communication, addressed from Washington, from Bonnell H. Stone, of Blairsville, relative to the work of the national conference on outdoor recreation, re-made a clearing-house for recreation teen thousand dollars for licenses, and outdoor activities, and in this the south, and peculiarly Georgia, or more has accrued to the state should be keenly interested.

According to press dispatches, the committee on correlation of agencies other than federal, decided upon the following:

In fixing the price of entrance the German organizers of the match decided that English spectators only had to pay one-fifth of the amount that the German spectators should pay, because "they could not be expected to expend the same amount of money as the Germans." This is one of the facts that the Dawes com-mission should have incorporated in its expert report.

That Was the End Of Socialism.

A little book, written in the German language and published in Austria, gives some interesting historical anecdotes of the first days of the war, when the world waited with bated breath the action to be taken by the German social democratic party of which Bebel, the leader, had said in connection with war credits:
"Not a man and not a cent." The party was at that time faced with actual war. In those early days Le-nin and Zinovieff were arrested in Austria as Russian subjects. They were held incommunicado in a very comfortable jail. To those two exreme radicals the attitude on war of German socialists was all-impor-t. No sooner were they released when they ran to a newspaper office. Lenin had made a bet with Zinovieff that the German socialists would vote against war credits and Zinovieff bet his leader that they would abstain from voting. At the newspaper office they discovered that they both had Editor Constitution: When the Editor Constitution: When the public begins to fully grasp the full meaning and objectives of this National Conference on Outdoor Recreation there will be a widespread interest in this work and great benefits to the nation will result. The Atlanta Constitution has done so much for these same objectives that I have wished you were here were minute of the time. were here every minute of the time these wonderful three days.

This conference will be made a permanent institution. Assistant Secre-tary Roosevelt will be made permanent chairman and the seventeen special committees will carry on their work which has merely begun here now. A "clearing house" for recreation and outdoor activities will correlate all interests and seek to point the way back to nature for all America and for a stronger, happier and more active citizenship.

I am inclosing for your information the plan of organization and procedure. The Society of American Foresters is represented on most of these seventeen special committees, and as I am on special committees, and as I am on committee No. 4, I am also inclosing a copy of our report, which indicates the "man-size" job we have undertaken to inventory the recreation agencies which already exist and to determine the objects, functions and activities, etc. When this has been done we will plan the correlation of work for all clubs, associations and organizations of all kinds which encourage outdoor life and recreation. The Girl Scouts America is represented by Lester Scott, New York city; the Canoe Clu of America is represented by Charles C. Stoddard, New York city; I represent the Society of American Foreste, etc. Our chairman is Governor Milliken, of Michigan. Our committee will send out questionnaires as soon as possible through-out the country requesting information on outdoor activities, but in the meantime I think you will agree that our people in the south—and especially in difference between even the most the state of Georgia—should be ready to cooperate fully for a greater general a person who has had proper instrucinterest in outdoor recreation.

As I am the only southerner on this committee, I will appreciate it if you will express publicly the desire of this conference for all who are interested to make that fact known as soon as possible and let us know about their activities along this line. WOMAN'S SPECIALIST Remedies may come and remedies may go in one long fleeting procession and are soon forgotton; but Dr. Pierce's wonderful herbal remedies have steadily endured for over fifty years and are as popular today as half a century ago, a splendid record, indeed.

Dr. R. V. Pierce, when a young and rising physician in Pennsylvania, learned the secrets of Nature's healing; he noticed the effect of certain herbs that regulate the disorders of women, also that the Indian women passed easily thru motherhood, and, using the same herbs and roots, he using the same herbs and roots, he compounded an unequalled remedy for women, which he called Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Thousands of unsolicited testinonials from grateful women bear witness to its healing powers. Dr. Pierce's phenomenal suc-

Lifting the Flagstick,

Lifting the Flagstick.

Possibly no subject in the golf rules is the center of more argument and debate than what may and may not be done with reference to the flagstick—who has a right to have it lifted, when it can be lifted and so on.

The rule is as follows: As a match approaches a hole, the flagstick must be removed, if either player requests it. The rule fixes no limit under which a match may be said to be approaching the hole. It is assumed to be any distance at which the player may reasonably be expected to reach the green on his next stroke. So that technically, if a player is 150 yards from the green, for instance, his opponent can claim the right to have the flagstick removed, if he chooses. Of course, whoever takes the flag can still stand at the hole to mark its location, after removing the stick. The idea of having the stick taken out of the hole is to avoid the possibility of having the ball strike it and atop dead, whereas it might otherwise have gone well beyond. What happens when a ball hits the flagstick will be taken up at another time.

Explanations.

Yes.

If any golf rules puzzle you, write Innis Brown, care of Constitution sporting editor, enclosing stamped, self-addressed envelope. He'll clear there for you. FOR A BETTER SCORE.

Players who have a tendency to smother the ball or, when they get it from the tee all right, to hook badly, may frequently correct their troubles by changing the position of the left-hand in the grip. Where this trouble arists, the left hand on the grip.

HACK EIBEL IS Southern League RELEASED

Macon, Ga., May 29.—Hack Eibel, manager of the Macon baseball club, who has been playing first base, was released tonight. W. S. Bond, pitcher, was designated as acting manager, but it was stated that negotiations are under way to obtain a nationally known baseball man as permanent manager.

manager. Eibel was batting .325 and had made nine home runs during the season.

It was stated authoritatively that the club regreted to obtain a new manager, but believed it necessary because of an alleged lack of discipline.

Macon has won only six games this season and with the changes proposed, starting with a new manager, the glub hopes to pull out of the rut.

Eibel's plans have not been announced. His home is in Atlanta.

Delightful Sea Trip $72.65-Boston and Return

Memphis, Tenn., Ma, 29.—Heavy hitting of the Chicks, especially in the first three innings when they counted four triples and a double, brought about the defeat of the Birmingham Barons, 10 to 5, in the opening game of the series here today. The victory, gained while Little Rock was administering the fifth consecutive defeat to Atlanta, placed the tribesmen six and one-half games shead in the pennant race.

Cooper and Eddie Hearne will fight it out.

On a final and careful analysis I plek Jimmy Murphy to come home with the bacon. Murphy has had a lot of hard luck since he won here two years ago and it seems to me the time has come for the luck to turn. If it does he will make every lap a winner. He has a Miller-built car.

Boyer in Dusenberg.

Joe Boyer has a Dusenberg which Fred Dusenberg thinks is the fastest little car ever built. Joe says it rides easier than any other car he ever sat in. Gibbons in Best of Shape; Carpentier on Fine Edge

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Michigan City, May 29.—While a chilling wind swept off Lake Michigan a few yards away, Georges Carpentier, former world's light heavyweight champion, today engaged in his last workout for his ten-round international contest with Tom Gibbdns, of St. Paul, here Saturday afternoon. The French light heavyweight did no boxing but engaged in work equivalent to six rounds, including shadow boxing and other gymnastic routine. The sweather was so cold when Carpentier appeared in the outdoors ring, which nestles in a ravine just off the shore of the lake, that he wore a white sweater over his ring clothes to protect himself.

Refusing to brave the biting wind, Refusing to brave the biting wind, Gibbons called off the outdoor program and took only light exercise, working outdoors in the dance hall in the resort where he is quartered, seven miles up the lake shore. Gibbons merely shadow-boxed and took a session at skipping the rope to keep his muscles loosened. In the morning he played eighteen holes of golf, defeating the champion women players of the club with a score of 90, regarded as excellent for the condition of the course and the weather.

Gibbons spent the remainder of the day sitting around a fire roaring in the fireplace of the spacious living Sparring Mates Laud Gibbons. Gibbons' sparring partners, apparently glad that their services were no longer needed, declared that Gibbons was in the finest possible condition.

This view also was shared by Man-ger Eddie Kane, who declared the St. Paul man was ready.

Gibbons himself ventured the opin-ion that his condition was perfect and that he would do nothing more to-and that he would do nothing more tomorrow aside from a round of golf in the morning.

The workout of Carpentier, one of the most graceful and easiest moving boxers in the world, was impressive, although the critics did not have the opportunity to watch him box.
In his shadow-boxing Carpentier worked in and out with amazing speed and agility, always slashing out with his famous right at an imaginary foe.
He appeared eager for work, asking He appeared eager for work, asking Manager Descamps for permission to go another round with the bag after Descamps thought he had enough.

Carpentier on Edge. Carpentier wound up with a three-minute session of rope skipping. He appeared to be on edge in the opinion of the experts, and both he and Des-camps expressed the greatest confi-dence in the result of Saturday's contest, neither admitting there is dence in the result of Saturday's contest, neither admitting there is a chance to lose.

Emerson W. Dickerson, of Grand Rapids, Mich., who will referee the contest, met both Carpentier and Gibbons today and explained the rules to them. Dickerson said both boxers would be ordered to tape their bands after they entered the ring instead of in the dressing rooms, and only soft cotton bandages would be allowed.

Gibbons said that he expected to scale around 177 pounds, which would make him two pounds heavier than when he met Jack Dempsey at Shelby, Mont., last Fourth of July. Carpentier expects to scale about 174 or 175 pounds. He weighed 168 when he faced Dempsey in their famous battle in Boyle's Thirty Acres in 1921.

Paschal Hits Homer in 9th

Constitution Staff Correspondent.

Little Rock, Ark., May 23.—The veteran Rube Robinson, who has been pitching baseball in the Southern league for about as long as Bill Stickney can remember, upheld his reputation as a jonah to the Atlanta Crackers took a 4-to-3 defeat in 12 innings. It was the Niehoff outfit's fifth straight loss.

Throw Away Run.

The Crackers and Travelers meet in a double-header tomorrow.

Dick Niehaus, the left-handed person Bert Niehoff sent against the Travelers, wasn't capable of the task of holding Kid Eiberfeld's crew. Two singles in succession, a sacrifice and an error in the twelfth allowed the winning count.

Niehaus was in trouble most of the game and it was because of base hits gathered by the Eiberfeld outfit. Two errors by Burrus and Hillis were the only bobbles chalked up against the Crackers.

Ben Paschal, Cracker left-hander, in the ninth inning, crashed out his seventh homer of the season to deep right center.

This one-run lead was only temporary, however, because the Traveler it not been for a beautiful throw to the plate by Paschal to catch Bobby Michaels as he slid into home, there wouldn't have been any need of extra innings.

Throw Away Run.

Throw Away Run.

The Travelers also threw another chance to the winds in the seventh inning. Michaels led off with a long sacrifice fly to Bill McCabe. Michaels crossed the plate standing up, but Steamboat Johnson called him out for leaving third before the catch. The Crackers did most of their hitting in the first and ninth innings. Three safeties in the first accounted for two runs. The hits in the ninth came after Paschal's homer, but they failed to count for runs.

Niehaus was in trouble in practically every inning and it was only overanxiety on the part of the Little Rock batters and brilliant fielding by the Crackers that enabled him to pull out of these holes.

The Crackers started their scoring in the first after Zoellers led off with a single to right. McCabe struck out, but Paschal singled to count Zoellers went to chird. Burrus followed with another single to count Zoellers and Paschal went to third. Smith hit to Mueller at third, who threw to second to start a double play, but Scrappy Moore dropped the ball and all hands were safe. Krellers flied out to end the inning.

Mrs. Dowman interpreted with heart and soul the diverse characteristics of this romantic work. The rollicking humor, the poetic charm, the dainty figure work, the pulsating life that animate the composition throughout, were brilliantly revealed to her enthusiastic audience with a power of expression and perfection of technique seldom equaled on our local concert platform. As an encore to the rapturous plaudits that followed. Mrs. Dowman gave a gavotte by Glazounov, a very beautiful and highly elaborated example of this old French dance form.

orated example of this old French dance form.

A touching incident marked the conclusion of the recital. Mrs. Dowman in a few feeling words presented her instructor, Alfredo Barili, stating that to him was due whatever musical ability her friends discerned in her. Mr. Barili, whom all musical Atlanta loves for his modest, retiring nature and respects for his, eminent qualities as a musician, was deeply affected by this testimonial of esteem from his talented pupil, and the large audience present fully shared his feelings. Mrs. Dowman was the recipient of many floral offerings, a tribute to her ability as an artist and worth and charm as a woman.

BEAUTY CHATS
By Edna K. Forbes

THE YOUTHFUL OLD WOMAN.

When I was young a grandmother was an old lady who was an expert at knitting and making up wise maxims. Quite often she wore a lacy white cap. I am glad I have known the type, for I firmly believe it extinct. I knew one—but I won't reminisce! Today's grandmother wears smart toques with flying veils, trim tailored suits, frilled blouses. French heels, and corsets that give her an 18-year figure. She takes "cures" if she can afford them and if not, goes periodically on diets at home, take gymnastic exercises or plays golf for her figure, uses pink face cream, knows the latest dance steps and the most amusing musical comedies and often smokes cigarettes. She is, of course, the daughter-generation to the grandmother of my childhood, I'm glad I know her type, too. I wonder whether her daughter-generation, when it achieves grand-motherhood will go back to lace caps and knitting. I doubt it!

There is a time when every woman must grow old. When that time comes, the had hetter subjust graces are the had hetter subjust graces whe had hetter subjust graces are the property of the product of the same shade. She carried an exquisite bouquet of pink sweetheart roses.

The bride entered the church with her father and was met at the altar by the groom and his best man, John J. McGee. She was lovely in a beautiful model of hand-embroidered crepe Romaine and a large picture hat of the same shade. She carried a bouquet of bride's only ornament was a beautiful cross of diamonds, an heirloom in the groom's family.

After a wedding breakfast, Mr. and Mrs. Lafitte left for a trip to points of interest in Florida and upon their return will be in their own home on St. Charles avenue.

There is a time when every woman must grow old. When that time comes, she had better submit gracefully, and be as charming and youthfully, and be as charming and youthful-hearted an elderly woman as possible. But that doesn't mean that she should not put off the days of old-ladyhood as long as possible. The

It's better to be a young looking old

It is said the guards will be kept there for the present. It is learned the United States consul has been advised directly as well as by the Japanese police of the alleged plot. The bombing plan is believed by officials to have originated with the Korean "provisional government," which was formed in 1919 in Shanghai by Koreans opposed to Japanese rule in their native country.

Every effort is being made by officials to prevent any outrage against Washington, May 29.—David C. Kerr, U. S. vice consul at Vancouver, was arrested here today on a charge of having accepted bribes to influence his decision on questions relating to the passage of aliens across the Canadian border.

Kerr, who is on detached duty here, pleaded not guilty before a United States commissioner and was released on bond.

The charge was made by the district attorney's office on behalf of Edward J. Norton, consul-general at large.

General Syurbrick and J. Fred Sanders, of the United States immigration service at Vancouver, were named as witnesses.

Kerr surrendered voluntarily when named as witnesses.

Kerr surrendered voluntarily when he learned that the authorities were seeking him. The charges are said to involve the passage of Chinese coolies across the border.

Trust your secret to another and it will be returned badly soiled.

Sir Broderick declared that the American demand for spirits actually existed and that many countries were competing for the trade. "What I am doing is a flea bite." he declared. "Why should I be referred to as a disgraceful blot for trying to meet this demand by a straight trading proposition?"

"Couldn't we have a quiet evening at home sometimes?" he suggested wistfully. "I'm pretty much done up these days. The heat's intense intown and things are a little rocky—"
"Please," she made an appealing gesture with her ringed hand, "don't start telling me about your business worries and how hard you work and all that. I know it, but I loathe business, and if you ask me to economize again, as you've been doing since Heaven knows when, I shall scream. I warn you!"

Marj rie wrinkled her brow thoughtfully.

"Of course, mother's pretty and young and full of fun—she ought to have lovely clothes and things. But Dan,—really Dad, I think Dan ought to think of something else besides tennis and golf and polo—and girls."

Her father came over and chuckled her playfully under the chin.

"Don't you worry your young head about this family's extravagance. Time enough when you're married and being held down by a stern husband of your own. As for Dan, remember, he's only in his first year at Harvard. He's got to finish college and get some of the coltishness out of him before we can expect him to settle down.

Marjorie and Dan had never been that they were nearest of an age. Marjorie had always liked Julie best. Julie was so jolly and careless, living only for a good time, it is true, but quite frank about it and not pretending otherwise. Leila was the poseuse of the family. She called herself an intellectual. She delved into one cult after another, surrounding herself each time with appropriate atmosphere until Marjorie never knew, when she returned from boarding school, whether she would enter a household turned into the retreat of an East Indian swami with Leila in purple velvet, reading Tagore; or

WORRIED DAYS.

It would have been unflattering to Reed Hollister had he known how quickly he was forgotten by one member of the Boice-Nevins family.

When he departed from "Soundview" that Sunday evening, he went completely out of the life and thoughts of Marjorie. Julie and Leila talked about him a great deal, and Mrs. Forester, on the afternoons when she ran over for tea in the garden, never failed to inquire when he was expected back.

Marjorie, remembering Julie's confidence regarding her father's financial affairs, began to watch him covertly. It seemed to her that he was looking older and wearier and grayer, as the days went by. He seldom accompanied her mother t. the dinners and dances that filled her evenings. She went her pretty, futile, frivelous way alone, but she grew more and more petulant about it.

"I might as well be a widow, or a divorcee, and be done with it," she way gayly, confident that his name and his father's money would complained. "I can't be forever tagging along with Julie and Leila."

"You might use Dan as an escort," Nevins had suggested with a smile. She wrinkled her pretty nose disdainfully.

"Go to dances with a grown son and be relegated to the chaperon class—never!"

He sighed and remained silent and Mrs. Boice-Nevins went off to a dance alone.

Marjorie, who had been reading in a corner of the library during this conversation, asked quietly:

"Dad, are we frightfully extravagant, mother and I?"

He laughed unmirthfully.

"Not you, kiddie. You haven't cost me anything since you finished your schooling... But your mother and Dan... well, I guess they both deserve everything I can give them. They're pretty fine, you know."

Marjorie wrinkled her brow thoughtfully.

"I wish to see Mr. Dalton. He is at home," said Htichin.
Bates considered for a moment and then nodded; it was no morning for quibbling.
"In here, sir!" he said, pattering off quickly to Dalton's study.
He pattered out again as quickly, and Hobart Hitchin, having taken a chair, rose from it at once and took to walking, brief-case still clutched in his hand and an exalted smile on his lips. So Theodore Dalton found him when he entered, fifteen seconds later—a mighty man, deep of chest, him when he entered, fifteen seconds later—a mighty man, deep of chest, savage of eye, square of chin, with great hairy hands and a shaggy gray head. This letter voices the opinion of thousands who have seen "The White Sister." Mr. H. P. Kingsmore, Manager, The Howard Theatre, Atlanta, Ga.

DEAR MR. KINGSMORE-

Atlanta, Ga.

DEAR MR. KINGSMORE—

I was in to see your movie last evening and I must say without doubt it is one of the very best pictures I have seen in years.

It is not only what I call a good picture, but it is a Godly one as it is both high-toned and inspirational.

The music is also very good and strikes me as being written for just such a picture.

I was benefited so much as a result of attending this "White Sister" picture of yours that I have fully made up my mind to see it again before it gets away and this is something I have done only once in many years.

I hope to be able to see this picture again, either tonight or tomorrow night. I beg to remain.

Yours for success,

JAMES J. COOPER.

Other Possible Results.

On the other hand, La Follette's candidacy may have some one or other of several possible curious results.

Much depends on what the democrats do in the light of this threat of La Follette's. Suppose the democrats nominate a conservative. In that event, with both the republican and democratic candidates conservative, all the radical and progressive votes would go to La Follette. But might not that throw all the conservatives into a panic and cause them all to flock to panic and cause them all to flock to Coolidge and wait on him as the one sure promise against victory by La Follette? On the other hand, suppose the democrats nominate a progressive. That would be the most likely way of preventing La Follette from getting very far. If the democrats nominate McAdoo, La Follette might even be prevented from running, because railroad labor would be satisfied with McAdoo and would decline to encourage La Follette to run as a third candidate. Any radical or extreme progressive nomination by the democrats might have the same re-Million To Repair has retarded the application of the Dawes program, later changes must have similarly disturbing effects.

On the surface Herriot will have behind him approximately half of the French chamber of deputies, some 292 members, but this strength rests upon the combination of three quite diverse elements—the socialists, the radicals and a small group of radical socialists or socialist radicals, who follow Painleve. All three of these parties were united in the common desire to overty as well as the majority of the communists to reckon with.

Coalition Is Fragile.

By contrast the bloc national, the old Poincare combination, counts 253 members and can rely upon some eleven more votes from the royalists. To enlist the necessary support of the socialists, Herriot must consent to accept certain legislative projects which will certainly be opposed by the whole of the bloc national and the royalists. If by any chance Painleve's group should presently break with Herriot's the combination would come crashing down in a moment.

Actually Herriot's ministry is going to have something of the same position now occupied by the labor government in England. Herriot's own party counts but 153 in a house of arty counts but 153 in a house of 84, as contrasted with 191 laborites 584, as contrasted with 191 laborites in a house of 615 members. Like Ramsay MacDonald, Herriot must then find large support outside his party in order to stay in power a single day. But unlike MacDonald, who can ordinarily count on the solid support of liberals, Herriot must get support not from one but two parties. And riot, then, forced to make large conriot, then, forced to make large con-cessions to the socialists is almost certain to find himself in a short time with only the support of his own rad-icals and the socialists, which would leave him in a hopeless minority and he may even find himself deserted by the socialists because he refuses to follow their desires sufficiently.

because railroad layor would be satisfied with McAdoo and would decline to encourage La Follette to run as a third candidate. Any radical or extreme progressive nomination by the democrats might have the same result.

Party Spirit at Low Ebb.

The one clear fact is that party leadership, party discipline and party loyalty are low in both parties. Out of that condition almost any strange development may arise. That the Ku Klux Klan dominates the democratic party in some states is well known. But the strangest development in recent American politics is expressed in the following description by a competent without the following description by a competent without the following description by a competent without the arrival of an election and included in the promise of new and disclosed at the confermence still more recently held at the clads out the promise of new and disclosed at the confermence still more recently held at the democratic party in some states is well known. Moreover, there are always the spite of this fact. And the tories communists to reckon with. ministry to remain because they are afraid of the country.

Uncertainty to Endure.

It is even conceivable, in view of recent happenings, that Herriot may fail outright in his attempt to form a ministry, although this is unlikely. In that event Briand might come at once and then the dangers of new delay in dealing with the Dawes re port would be obviated. Once Briand did come it is pretty certain that he could create a new bloy, drawing alike from the bloc national which supported Poincers and the blog. alike from the bloc national which, supported Poincare and the bloc of the left which opposed him, for Briand would be at one time most moderate in method and word than Poincare and more conservative in principle and in action than Herriot, For the present, however there is uncertainty and this uncertainty seems destined to endure aven if Harriot. destined to endure even if Herriot is able to patch together a temporary cabinet. Despite its outward appearances the recent election result was on the whole a far more complete repudiation of Poincare than of his policies and far less a revelation of radicalism in France than of a desire to get rid of a leader who had come to stand in the popular mind for reactionary ideas. But with Poincare removed, there are already many signs that the new chamber is vastly more conservative in temper than the man who will be asked to form the new cabinet can possibly be, given his associates and wife and two children. DUN'S REVIEW

New York, May 29 .- Dun's tomor-

"Each week's reports have stressed the adverse effect of the backward season on the trade and sgriculture season on the trade and sgriculture in different sections. Cotton has risen sharply in price because progress of the new crop has been impeded by unfavoragble weather, while the same influence has prevented a normal distribution of spring merchandise, causing accumulation of stocks and retarding colections. Retail sales have been further restricted by the diminished public purchasing power due to decrease in working forces at manufacturing plants, and in certain cases to wage revisions. New York, May 29.—Cottonseed oil was featureless until near the close when covering of July and September shorts advanced prices sharply in the absence of offerings. Closing bids were 20 to 22 points net higher for leading deliveries. Sales 5,100 barrels. New York, May 24 -- With bond prices drifting irregularly lower in prices drifting irregularly lewer in today's desultory pre-holiday trading chief interest in investment circl's was attached to the ready absorpting of new railroad bond offerings. The $35,000,000 Baltimore & Ohio 6s and $7,734,000 New Orleans, Texas and Mexico 5 1-2s were sold shortly after subscription books were opened. FENNER & BEANE, New York, May 29.—With the stock narket facing a three-day suspension busi-ess practically came to a standatill today market facing a three-day suspension business practically came to a standatill today and most transactions were of an evening up character. The selling was a little more pronounced than the buying with the result that prices gave way slightly in the little actual pressure because of the 7,500 barrel increase in the week ended May 24, and the increase of 3,97,000 barrels in crude oil atocks during April. Oil producers deny rumors that prices are to be cut; on the other hand speculators generally expect some such thing to happen, and in addition to some liquidation in oils there is believed to be considerable short selling.

subscription books were opened.

Extremely narrow price fluctuations marked dealings in most issues on the stock exchange. Liberty bonds were firm, the drop in call money to below 3 per cent and the further ease in time funds stimulating additional employment of institutional funds. terized by the usual pre-holiday dullness, total sales of 425,100 shares being the smallest for any full-day ses-rected against the oils on unfavorable interpretation of production statistics and unconfirmed rumors of further price cuts. Cosden dropped a point or so, but a brisk rally took place later, particularly in the Pan-American is sues.

Establishment of new 1924 highs by North American, Virginia Railway & Power, Public Service of New Jersey and International Railway of Central America preferred, was counteracted by new lows in a dozen ordinarily inactive stocks, including Wilson Company, Owens Bottle and International Nickel preferred.

With the exception of American Can, which closed 1-4 lower at 1.02 1-2, all the pivotal stocks showed small net gains. U. S. Steel common dipped below 95 and then rallied to 95 1-2. Early heaviness of the independent steels wore off on publication of trade advices from Pittsburg that the volume of steel buying has not decreased in the last 30 days.

Except for leaves of about a point

Delaware and Hudson, which sold off rather sharply on the closing out of some speculative accounts, the railroad shares showed little change. Rubber issues recovered some of their recent losses on short covering. Call money opened at 3 per cent and then eased to 2 3-4, which is the lowest it has been since March 21, 1924, when it closed at 2 1-2 per cent. The time money markst also showed an Chicago, May 29.—Wheat: Narrow local trade with lack outside interest the outstanding feature. There was no pressure on either side and prices held within a narrow range as some tired longs liquidated and shorts covered over the holiday. There was steady absorption of September wheat on all weak spots attributed to a large eastern professional, presumed to be going long. castern professional, presumed to be going long.

CORN: Locals evened up over the holiday toward the close causing prices to ease slightly, trade moderate. Cash basis ¼ to % cents lower. Liberal receipts of corn are looked for Saturday over the holiday and the last day for May deliveries.

OATS: Small trade, bull leaders took May, scattered commission houses bought July and September, locals evened up toward the close.

PROVISIONS: Dull but steady with little pressure. Hogs, 5 cents up; top, 7.45.

CURB MARKET

300 Am Gas & El new. 64% 64% 64% 100 Am Gas & El pfd.. 43% 43% 43% had a downward slant. Wheat clostic quotations were firm at 1-8c to 3-8c net gain, July $1.07 5-8 to $1.07 3-4 and September $1.09, with cful off the corn up 1-4c to 1 1-4c; oats unchanged to 3-8c higher, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 2 1-2@5c.

At first, the wheat trade here was bearishly affected by reports of continued beneficial rains west and southwest and by a decline at Liverpool that was associated with enlarged ship ments from Argentina. On the downturns in price here, however, commission house demand became noticeably broader, and near the close liberal purchasing on scale orders led to a moderate advance.

General evening up of accounts so as to prepare for the holiday and for the month-end settlement almost at hand did g good deal to foster the late strength of the weat market, closing prices being virtually at the days to level.

PULIMAN COMPANY: Pullman Company should increase its net carnings for 1924 over last year as a result of the new bill which has already passed the senate abolishing the 50 per cent sur-charge which the railroads collect on pullman car tickets. In New England, perticularly, the abolition of this sur-charge will probably result in greatly increased enraings for Fullman, sithough it is admitted that this law will probably result in a loss to the railroads of the country of about $32,000,000 to $35,000,000 per annum.

TWO AMERICANS HELD FOR RANSOM

Peking, May 29.—(By the Associated Press.)—Culver B. Chamberlain, American vice consul at Canton, has gone to Wuchow, in Kwangsi province, to urge action by local authorities to obtain the release of two Americans and their 22 companions, taken centive recentive by pirates who can captive recently by pirates who cap-tured the motor boat Roanoke, owned by the American Southern Baptist mission at Wuchow.

The Roanoke was captured near Ohenping on the Ho river. The American prisoners are Dr. H. G. Miller, member of the Christian missionary alliance, and Rex Ray, of the Southern Baptist Mission.

Two Englishmen, named Jaffray and Carne, also were taken prisoner, along with twenty Chinese. All were blindfolded and taken to the pirates' mountain stronghold.

The story of the attack and the capture became public when the handits ture became public when the bandits released the Chinese captain of the Ro-anoke so that he might notify the mission that the prisoners would be freed upon payment of a large ransom.

The American legation here is making representations to the foreign of-

The American consul at Canton fears that an early release is improba-ble, however, because the prisoners were taken into a wild and uninhab-ited country.

The motorboat was loaded with supplies for the relief of missionaries at Kweilin. PEARSON STUDENTS

Tishomingo Parle-New Subdivision

700 LOTS-$150.00 EACH WE BEGIN our third year in business by opening our eighth and largest subdivision at Brookhaven. The name is Tishomingo Park. Location Fulton and DeKaib Counties. It faces Peachtree-Dunwoody Road (newly paved) on the west, House road on the south, Silver Lake branch on the north, Silver Lake road and Silver Lake Park on the east. It is in the shadow of magnificent Oglethorpe university, and is 5 minutes' walk from beautiful Silver Lake. Johnson's Ferry road runs through the center of this property. Most of the property is inside an incorporated town, it is within walking distance of the car line, and Atlanta city water, electric lights and telephones can be brought to it with little expense.
Nearly every lot in this subdivision is covered with large cak trees. For camping sites, and for future enhancement nothing better has ever been offered near Atlanta.

TISHOMINGO Park will be a restricted subdivision. No house costing less than $8,000 can be built there. No hospital, business house or apartment house can be built, and no houses or lots can be sold to negroes. This is strictly a high-class section, and every dollar invested in this property will bring you back at least one dollar per year for the next ten years. The lots are all priced the same, those coming first of course getting the better lots. The price is $150.00 each, terms ALL CASH. Call us if you want to look at the lots, or if you prefer, get them through your regular real estate dealer. Abstract of title furnished free with each lot.

Atlanta Firm Aids Farmers of Georgia Grow Many Crops

Fitzgerald, Ga., May 29 .- (Special.)-Crop diversification is the concrete lesson being taught south Georgia farmers through several demonstration farms in Ben Hill county, being operated by the farm sales department of the Atlanta Trust company. One of these farms is being operated at Ambrose, where the corporation had to take over a large tract of land, the original owner being unable to cope with the boll weevil.

Not being able to find buyers for the farms they secured 35 North Carolina tobacco farmers and leased the lands to them for the year, farming under the direct supervision of their own farm director, J.
